THE PERFECT APPLICANT

You're a perfectionist in the best sense of the word. You see color, light, and composition in higher resolution than the rest of us. Your ability to spot subtle color casts, paint in highlights to direct the eye, and masterfully blend 30 layers to look natural freaks the average person the heck out. Subtlety is your goal, precision your method, and the Adobe Creative Suite your primary tool. An accomplished fixer, you're a whiz at complex compositing and can juggle multiple projects at once. Deadlines? No problem. Critiques? Bring 'em on. You're lighting fast (without sacrificing quality, of course) and open to collaboration.

Though you love talking new ideas for creating beautiful images, you're OK with plugging away behind the scenes, sometimes for hours on end, to get the image right. For some, such a pursuit would seem like drudgery. But you know it's where the magic happens and you're pretty much a photoshop David Blaine. Yet, one of the most important traits you possess is the ability to know when to say "when," stop correcting, and let the image do its thing.

Freelance had its perks, but you're ready for a consistent stream of gorgeous photos of the world's most luxurious destinations to hang out with on the daily. You're a team player who's ready to jump in wherever you're needed because you know all of your work, though excruciatingly micro-focused at times, will always have a major impact on the literal "big picture."
